Namibia – The Origin of Hunting

Namibia offers the visitor a range of remarkable experiences in a variety of astonishing environments – exciting hunts, big trophies, challenging stalks, breathtaking sunrises and sunsets, fierce thunderstorms, boiling-hot days and freezing-cold nights, flat savannahs, rocky mountains, gigantic dunes, majestic rivers...

The country gained independence from South Africa on 21 March 1990. President Dr Hage Geingob leads a multiparty parliament with a democratic constitution. The country's main economic sectors are mining, fishing, tourism (including hunting) and agriculture.

With a surface area of about 825 000km², much of which is under desert, and about 2.1 million people, Namibia is one of the least populated countries in the world.

This translates into some of the most magnificent wildlife habitats and wilderness areas on Earth, from the world's largest shifting sand dunes in the southern Namib to riverine forest and swampland in the Caprivi in the northeast.

Namibia has 14 vegetation zones supporting some of the richest wildlife in the world.

Big game includes elephant (including, in the Kaokoveld, the world's last surviving population of desert elephants), lion, rhino, buffalo, cheetah, leopard and giraffe. There are 20 antelope species, 240 mammal species (14 endemic), 250 reptile species, 50 frog species and 676 bird species.

Omujeve Lodge

Omujeve Lodge, a 45-minute (60km) drive from Windhoek, Namibia's capital, is the headquarters of our operation. Here, the comfort and entertainment of our guests is our priority.

Our luxury en-suite double rooms have kingsize beds, fridges, air-conditioning, and all the other thoughtful little touches required to ensure you enjoy a pampered and happy stay.

The dining room with its bar, entertainment area and generous verandah is the perfect place to unwind after a busy day. All meals, lovingly and expertly prepared by a team of chefs trained by prize-winning foodie Elsada Kruger, will linger in your memory long after the last bite has been savoured. We specialise in game dishes, and use organically homegrown ingredients harvested from our farm.

There's a firepit for socialising in the evenings, and a heated swimming pool for those who like a dip. We have satellite TV offering 200 channels, and if you need to catch up with colleagues, you're welcome to use our wi-fi facilities.

Schonbrunn Farmstead Lodge

Our southern facility, Schonbrunn Farmstead Lodge, is about 230km (four hours' drive) southwest of Windhoek, close to the famous Sossusvlei dunes in the Namib-Naukluft National Park.

Schonbrunn is a converted farmhouse where our guests' comfort and convenience are kept in mind at all times. The luxury rooms are en-suite and airconditioned, while socialising takes place in our dining and entertainment area with its firepit.

Ivory Luxury Tented Camp

The Kwando River system is noted for its wildlife, and it's the location of Ivory Camp, offering five luxury tents with en-suite bathrooms.

As at the other camps, a large dining area, bar and firepit offer a warm and friendly place for evening gatherings.

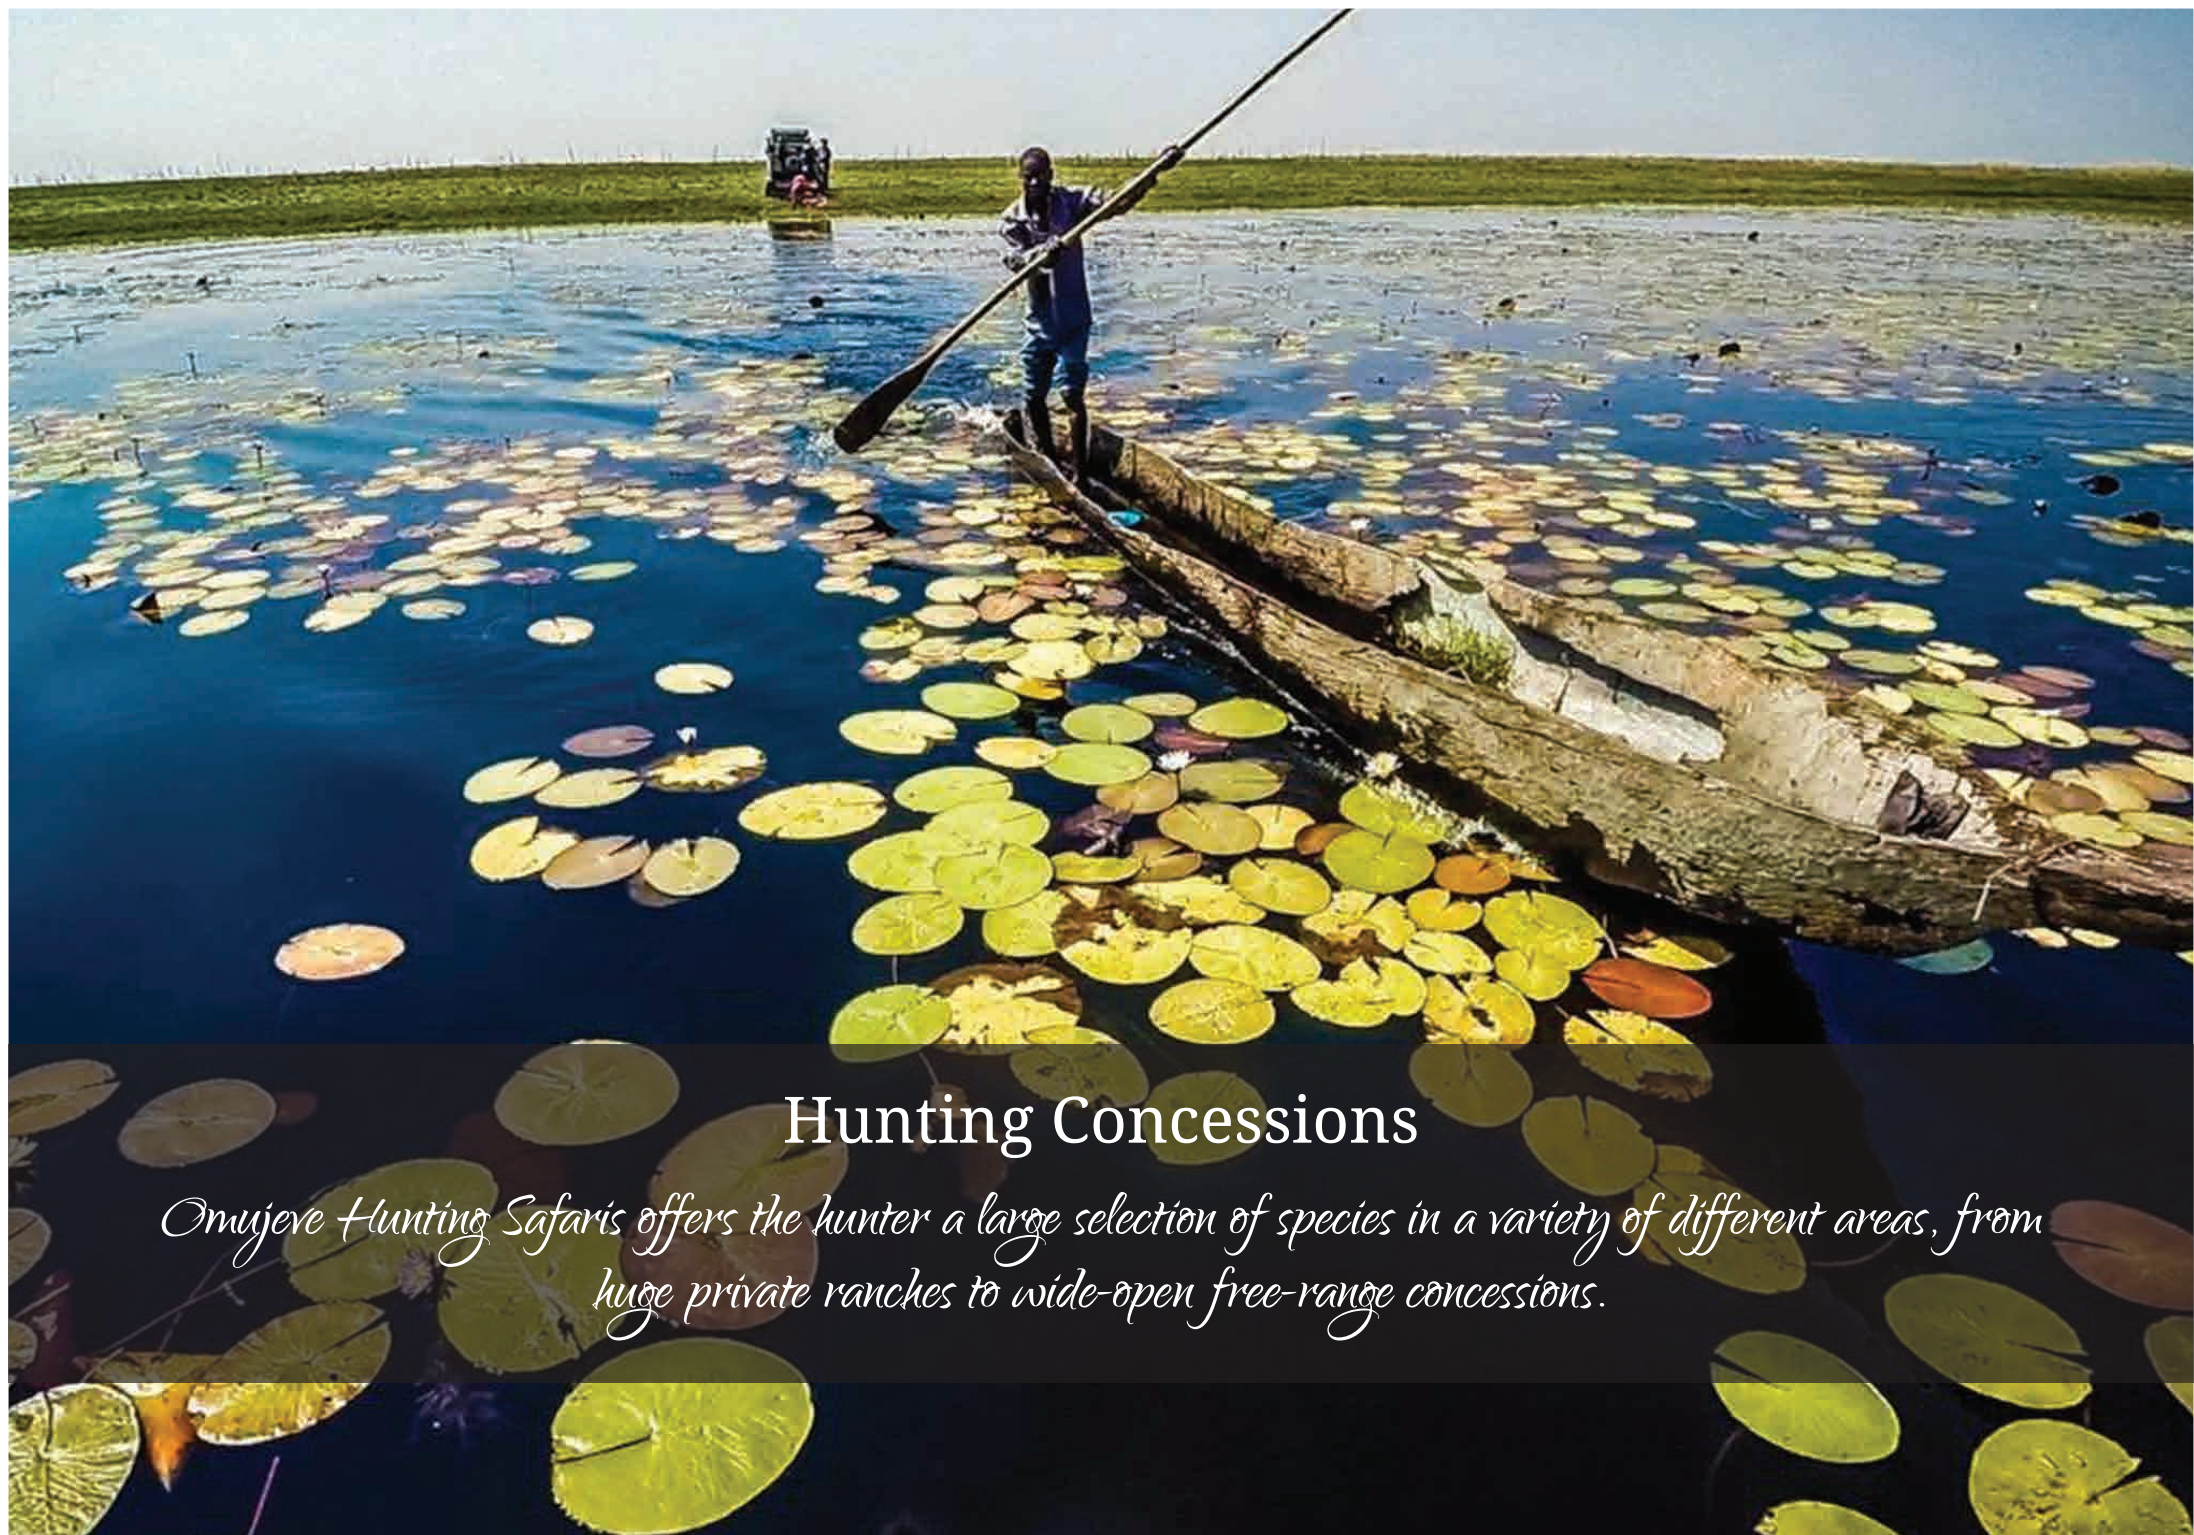

Omatendeka Tented Camp

The tented camp in our concession area, Omatendeka, is an eight-hour drive through some of Namibia's most beautiful wilderness and wildlife areas to the Kaokoveld in the northwest of the country.
